The 1975 Spindle is Dedicated to Raymond A. Sullivan

For everything there is a season. And so it is that Raymond A. Sullivan, Headmaster of The Lowell High School, retired this year after a career in the public schools of Lowell spanning almost half a century.

Retirement, like birth, marriage and death, is one of those milestones of life which, as Hamlet said, must give us pause. We live our lives from day to day, yet we don't count the time. We never see the days slipping by until, suddenly, we find that the time we have to give to our careers must come to an end.

Our class of 1975, Raymond Sullivan's thirty-eighth as Headmaster, has already graduated, a little nucleus of humanity that overnight will explode and dissipate itself in all directions. Yet, before we hasten off on our separate journeys, it is only fitting that our last act as a class be to join the myriad of Mr. Sullivan's friends and colleagues who wish him retirement years which will be as full of happiness, good fortune and good works as were his years at Lowell High.

Emerson said that an institution is but the lengthened shadow of one man. And seldom has that been more true than now. The Lowell High School will long reflect the influence of Raymond A. Sullivan.

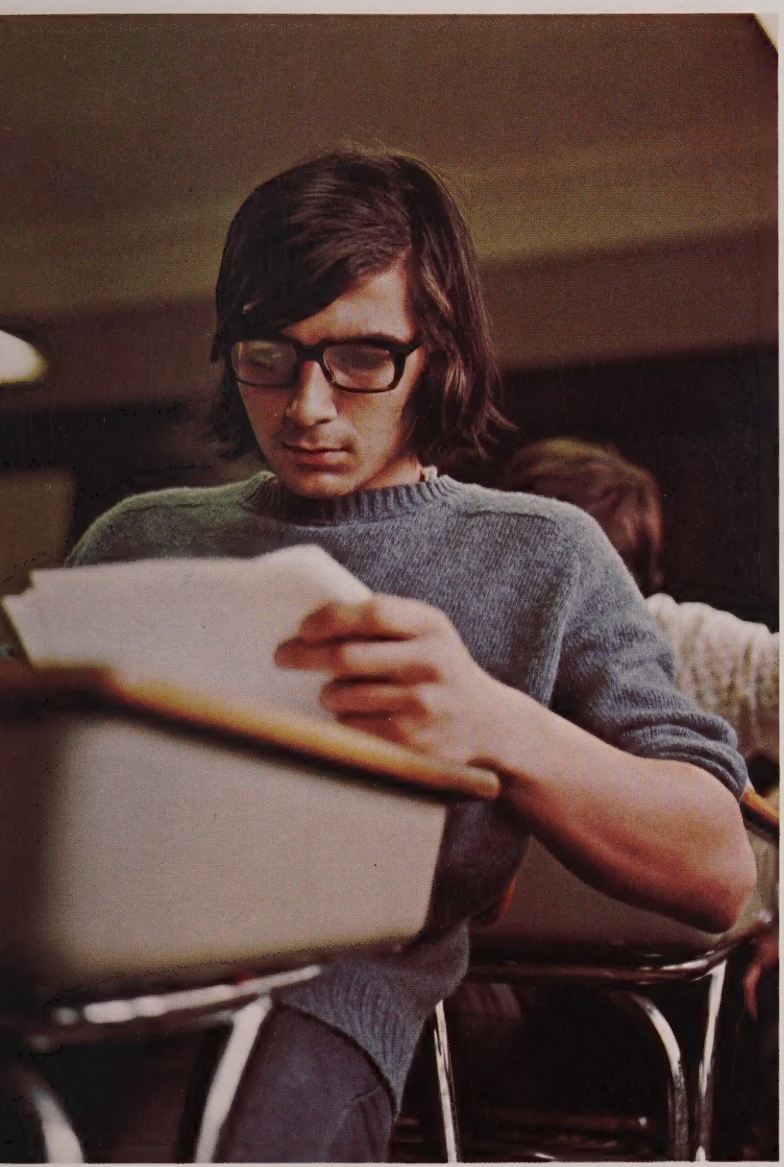
YOU WILL ALWAYS REMEMBER ... coming to LHS during your junior high school days and thinking, "It's so big!" ... getting lost on the first day of school ... finding your locker on the third floor when your homeroom was in the basement ... running into your old junior high school friends in the corridor ... pushing through the crowded hallways to get to class on time ... coming to school in the middle of the morning and getting out just before dark ... getting into trouble and being sent to the floormaster ... sneaking a smoke between classes ... skipping health ... walking in the snow and the rain over to the Annex ... finding out who your teachers were going to be for the next year and hearing all the horrible things about them from the kids who had them before ... looking up to the seniors and wondering, "Am I ever going to be like that?" ... forgetting your locker combination when you were in a hurry ... having your lock stolen ... being late for class ... practicing and practicing for Field Day ... going to Rickie's Dog House for lunch ... worrying about whether or not you'll be asked to the Senior Prom ... trying to do the bamboo sticks in gym ... making crib sheets.

MOMENTS TO REMEMBER . . . finding out your schedule for next year and trying to get it changed . . . hanging around after lunch and waiting for the bell to ring . . . buying your class ring . . . measuring ourselves for caps and gowns . . . having student teachers . . . going to the nurses' office . . . changing for gym . . . getting accepted to college . . . doing the Marine test in gym . . . running the mile . . . eating donuts in the caf in the morning . . . having your eyes tested in the auditorium . . . getting your first after-school job . . . getting your hair cut short for the first time in many years . . . registering to vote . . . copying homework . . . cutting classes . . . daydreaming in biology . . . waiting for the 2:15 bell . . . studying for your drivers' test to get your permit . . . doodling in your literature book . . . trying to get your schedule corrected in guidance . . . getting 3 and 3 . . .

walking to school in the dark during the energy crisis ... marching in the Field Day parade ... getting your license ... meeting your friends under the clock ... registering for the draft ... parking in the muddy lot across the canal ... doing the Greek dance at the Chateau de Ville ... walking up to the stage to receive your diploma from School Committeeman George Kouloheras ... Going to Ashby on Senior Skip Day ... skipping gym ...

listening to music on Lucy Larcom ... getting stuck in the slow-moving crowds on the stairs between classes ... flying paper airplanes in the auditorium ... dozing off in language lab ... partying on Lucy Larcom ... having detention before school ... waiting in the long lunch line and having the food run out ... ducking teachers in the hall because you skipped their class ... waking up and finding that class ended ten minutes ago ...

SENIOR PROM



MEMORIES THAT LINGER . . . eating lunch in the hall . . . running to beat the lines in the lunchroom . . . watching the educational films in drivers' ed . . . wondering, "What is that awful smell coming from chemistry class?" . . . practicing for drill . . . getting hit on the head with a clacker . . . bringing back the yo-yo . . . having classes outside in the hot weather . . . visiting all the Christmas parties . . . wearing gym uniforms . . . meeting new friends . . . getting picked to work in an office for senior year . . . having your lock sawed off your locker . . . wishing you were a senior so you could have a senior skip day too . . . practicing the clubs . . . doing homework in another class . . . marching behind the auditorium . . . writing on desks . . . smoking in the basement . . . having Mr. Finn, Mr. O'Brien, Mr. O'Neil and Mr. Murphy for floormasters . . . seeing the headmaster for the first time . . . coming in late to miss first period class . . . sneaking a bite to eat in class . . . waiting for Christmas vacation . . . going on a field trip . . . being told what courses to take . . . listening to the radio for no school announcements . . . going to the boys' club for gym.

MEMENTOES OF LOWELL HIGH SCHOOL LIFE ... the courtyard ... the "old" building ... the energy shortage ... Beowulf ... Hampton Beach the day after the prom ... The Review ... the dress code ... the student council ... hot pants ... the rock and roll music history program in the auditorium ... Tom Jones ... the visit of the Apollo Astronauts ... The Freedom Train ... the 50's dance ... speeches by Senators Brooke and Kennedy ... "Yaz" ... crowded lockers ... tardy slips ... music in the lunchroom ... the language lab ... College Boards ... Mr. Trull ...

combination locks ... the library ... the National Honor Society ... cuffs ... clogs ... mini-midi-maxi ... warning reports ... class dues ... class elections ... yearbook portraits ... Honor Day ... substitutes ... hot toothpicks ... saddle shoes ... the Red Raiders ... basketball games ... Miss Conroy's cooking classes ... R1, R2, R3, R4 ... assemblies ... Mr. Garvey's movies ... the red and gray ... the stadium ... the student-faculty basketball games ... the donkey basketball game ... Civil Service Exams ... guidance ... how happy you were to make Girl Officers ... tryouts at the Rogers ...

girls crying in the halls when Mr. Sullivan read the list of those who "made it" ... assignment halls ... tardy slips ... clocks that did not keep time ... bells and fire alarms that you could not hear ... SCHOOL VACATIONS ... snow days ... The wrestlers ... The Harvest ... cheerleaders ... the talent shows ... the Cadet Officers' uniforms ... streakers at LHS ... the closing of the boys' annex during sophomore year ... 6 fire drills in one day ... field trips to the Museum of Fine Arts and Canobie Lake ... MacBeth ... the student walkout for Mr. Borst ... the broken water pipe downtown ... the canal.

WILL YOU EVER FORGET ... how embarrassed you were to get caught in your gym uniform during a fire drill ... bomb scares ... all those studies in the auditorium ... "Attention, please, Daily Notice for ... " ... ice cream in the caf ... Chorus ... the band ... the G.O. and C.O. formals (which were exciting even if you didn't go) ... the New England Aquarium ... HOMEWORK ... cake sales ... Whalom Park ... minicourses ... outside reading books ... report cards ... one thirds ... the bell ... open house ... watching the first snow fall from your classroom window ... skipping classes ... having two senior skip days ... checking out the girls ... waiting impatiently for those last few days of school to go by ... hoping to have enough money for the prom ... begging teachers for a passing mark ... playing cards ... studying???

going to the Thanksgiving game ... freezing in Mr. Delisle's class ... getting yelled at by Mr. Murphy ... looking at the clock ... writing book reports ... wondering if you'll graduate ... riding a bike for the telethon ... throwing snowballs ... sitting alone in your classrooms during senior skip day ... driving with Mr. Riddick, Mr. Trull, or Mr. Grady ... meeting someone special after school ... writing term papers ... walking through the mud in the parking lot ... listening to all the noisy cars, trucks and motorcycles going by on Kirk St. ... feeding the fish in the canal ... watching the long lines for the Freedom Train and not being able to go ... meeting your boyfriend between classes ... writing notes to get out of gym ... standing at the radiator between classes ... convincing Mr. Murphy???

Mr. Sullivan

Edward Sullivan

Edward Sullivan retired this year after a career that spanned thirty-five years at Lowell High School. During that time, he was a dedicated teacher, one who always had a smile for students and fellow teachers.

In recent years, as Head of the Business Department, he exhibited a talent for organization and management that was the envy of other departments within the school. Hundreds of students over the years learned the principles of office practice under Mr. Sullivan's direction, while keeping his large department running smoothly.

Edward Sullivan's positive influence will be felt for a long time at Lowell High. We wish him well in his retirement.

Always pick your neckties with care!

James Finn

In 1959, Jim Finn came to Lowell High School as an English teacher after a successful career as a newspaperman. Before he retired in 1974, he had been advisor of The Review, advisor of The Spindle, Freshman Floormaster, Master of Avco and Keith. These are the names of the jobs he held. They tell nothing of the man. He brought excitement to his English classes, enthusiasm and expertise to The Review, friendship to the faculty and student body. His humor brightened our days and his understanding smoothed the way for many a faltering ninth grader. Lowell High School is a duller place without him. We miss him.

Mr. Finn

Margaret Hetherman

Miss Margaret Hetherman, who retired in June, 1974, after teaching at Lowell High School for forty years, died April 30, 1975. The students fortunate enough to have been in her classes will never forget this unselfish, dedicated teacher. She brought to her classes much more than an understanding of the assigned subject matter. Her method employed that spontaneous wit which enlivens the most commonplace lesson, special insight that deepens understanding, idealism that inspires students to greater heights, and a genuine compassion that breaks down any barrier between teacher and pupil.

As her students and friends, we feel a great loss at her death. Our only solace lies in the delightful memories we have of this wonderful friend and teacher.

Our Junior Class Officers Hope to Begin New Tradition

During junior year, our class officers, President, Tom Fleming; Vice President, Elaine O'Donnell; Secretary, Ann O'Connor; and Treasurer, Meg Fleming, with the cooperation of Submaster, Arthur O'Neill, initiated the concept of a Junior Dinner Dance as the social highlight of our school year. Characteristically, the class responded with enthusiasm, and on June 7, 1974, a great number of our elegantly dressed classmates arrived at the Commodore Ballroom, brimming over with the excitement of what was, to many, their first formal affair. After greeting friends, partaking of a gourmet meal, and dancing to the music of "Image," all agreed that the evening was a tremendous success.

It is to be hoped that this affair will be repeated by succeeding junior classes and that our class has helped to establish a new tradition at Lowell High School.

Girl Officers

Under the leadership of Colonel Eileen Shea and Lieutenant Colonel Karen Bellerose, the Girl Officers have demonstrated once again the fine points of marching, dancing, posture, voice and mass drill. Mrs. Beatrice Johnston, faculty advisor of the organization, is justifiably proud of the girls who wear the smart navy blue uniforms with brass buttons and gold chevrons.

The seventy-two girls were selected by three out-of-town judges, from a field of many candidates, during a day of grueling competition. As chosen leaders, the officers teach gym exercises to underclassmen, represent the school at various civic activities, and help to develop future Girl Officers.

Newly-elected Lieutenant Colonel Karen Bellerose and Colonel Eileen Shea are pleased with their success.

The Harvest

Girl Officers Sponsor Annual Fall Dinner Dance

The Sheraton Rolling Green furnished the setting, while a local group, "Image," provided the music for the first social event on the Girl Officers' calendar – the annual Harvest Dinner Dance, which was held on November 22, 1974. Among the honored guests were Headmaster and Mrs. Raymond A. Sullivan; Master Stanley Stoklosa and his wife, School Committeewoman Kathryn Stoklosa; Dean of Students Dr. Eugene Wood and Mrs. Wood; and Mr. Donald Johnston and his wife, Beatrice Johnston, Director of the Girl Officers.

The excitement of the merry-makers, the delightful music, and the sumptuous meal all contributed to a wonderfully successful affair. The music and the dancing, which began at eight o'clock, ended promptly at midnight. After pausing to bid their friends goodnight, the evening's Cinderellas and Prince Charmings departed, filling Andover Street with a steady stream of traffic as they headed back to Lowell.

Cadet Officers

Since 1880, the Cadet Officers' Brigade has been influential in developing the leadership potential of outstanding Lowell High School students. During their junior year, boys compete for ranks in both written and physical exams. The Generalcy, a grueling competition for promotions within the ranks, is conducted at the beginning of the senior year.

Under the guidance of faculty directors, Colonel John Beaulieu and Lieutenant Philip Dancause, Brigadier General Timothy Lyons and Colonel David Hanks have led the brigade to the completion of another successful year.

Captain Mike Murphy drills his company.

Cheerleaders

12 Vivacious Girls Urge Raiders on to Victory

With undauntable enthusiasm, the Lowell High School Cheerleaders, smartly attired in crisp red and white, lead Raider fans in spirited cheers and perform a series of intricate routines with seemingly inexhaustible energy.

Under the direction of Mrs. Beatrice Johnston, the girls inspire victory in the hearts of Raider athletes and contribute greatly to Lowell High's school spirit.

Meet Me in St. Louis

Season's First Musical A Great Success

On January 17, 1975, the drama and choral arts departments collaborated to produce the musical comedy, Meet Me in St. Louis. Under the direction of Michael Sokolowski and Douglas Townshend, students involved in the production, performing before a delighted audience, demonstrated once again that Lowell High School has a wealth of outstanding theatrical talent.

The G. O.

Girl Officers' Formal Brightens Winter Season

February 8, 1975, marked the occasion of the traditional Girl Officers' mid-winter formal, climaxing weeks of exciting preparation for the girls and their escorts. The Lowell Memorial Auditorium, lavishly decorated for the affair in vibrant red and white, was alive with the gaiety and laughter of exuberant young dancers. As waves of music from Billy Note's orchestra floated through the air, couples, in a kaleidoscope of beautiful gowns and elegant tuxedos, whirled about the floor, capturing the thrilling moments of the evening in memories to be savored in the years to come.

The Grand March Highlights Evening

To the delight of relatives and friends, who filled the balcony, the receiving line in which the girls and their escorts were greeted by city and school department officials, was followed by The Grand March. During this awe-inspiring procession, the girls, led by Colonel Eileen Shea and Charles Kelleher and Lieutenant Colonel Karen Bellerose and John Dolan, exhibited admirable poise and breathtaking dignity.

The King and I

On May 8th and 9th the Lowell High School Choral Arts and Drama Departments combined talents to produce the spectacular musical success, The King and I. Based on Margaret Landon's novel, Anna and the King of Siam, this delightful musical portrays the conflicts which develop when East meets West as the widow Anna Leonowens attempts to bring the culture of her beloved England to the country of Siam and its ambitious, autocratic king.

Arrayed in the finery of the harem are the King's wives, Joanne Leahy, Cheryl Guillemette, Sharon McArthur, and Cyndi Fields.

The Spindle

The Lowell High School yearbook, The Spindle, has undergone many changes during recent years. The most significant of these occurred four years ago when the members of the class of 1972 voted overwhelmingly for a fall delivery of the yearbook. Since then, a large majority of each class has been in favor of this procedure. Lowell High is the only major high school in the area to choose a fall delivery, although most colleges have been receiving their books in the fall for many years. Late delivery permits a more expansive yearbook, with full coverage of all senior activities, up to, and including, graduation. Other major changes in The Spindle include 16 full color pages, the largest color section of any high school yearbook in New England, and the addition of 64 pages. In the last two years, the book has been enlarged from 176 to 240 pages.

Personnel

The Personnel Department, founded in 1924, helps greatly in preparing senior girls for the future in the business world. This fine department is responsible for all mimeographing work done in the school, such as printed tests, office forms, absentee lists, daily notices and schedules. The girls are chosen for their outstanding work in shorthand and typewriting during their junior year by Mrs. Ruth Gagnon, head of the Personnel Department.

Field Day

Field Day is a tradition at Lowell High School which predates the turn of the century. The exercises begin with a parade through downtown Lowell featuring companies of white uniformed girls, carrying either colorful crepe paper shakers or Indian clubs, and boys in military dress carrying rifles. Traditionally, the girls, led by Girl Officers in their navy blue uniforms, participate in various exercises, while the boys, under the supervision of the Cadet Officers, vie for honors in competetive drills. Gymnastic activities, which place added emphasis on physical fitness, are included in the program for underclassmen.

Football

The 1974 LHS football team was backboned by All American Tom McOsker. Behind the senior offensive line of tackles, Chet Szablak and Barry Lewis, guards Ken Cregg and Bill Rawnsley, and center Bob Gormley, Tom rushed 878 yards, directed the pass attack to ends Joe Slattery and Bill Furey, and punted the ball on fourth down situations.

Ed Choate, the small blocking fullback, cut down much larger defensive linemen, enabling junior halfback Ed Kulis to rumble for yardage.

Greg Noonan, Jack Rogers, and Mark Walsh teamed with McOsker to bolster the Red and Gray defense.

Larry Rocha, a valuable two-way performer as a junior, was sidelined by a knee injury for the first half of the season. His return to the defensive secondary in the Haverhill tilt helped halt the speedy Hillie offense.

Three leading LHS ball carriers, McOsker, Choate and Kulis sweep left for valuable yardage.

Boys' Basketball

Coach Mike Crowley's boys couldn't wait until the Tech Tourney to play top notch clubs: they faced seven tourney teams in regular season competition. While all eleven losses were suffered to these teams, the Red and Gray swept its eight games with five lower-rated schools.

Co-captain Tim Bassett headed the well-balanced scoring stats with 244 points. Steve Creamer and Paul Makiej also cleared the 200 point mark. Guards Al Dennis and Co-captain Steve Callahan and rebounders Mike McMullen and Dan Rogers supplied the remaining offense. This year's team could have won the Merrimack Valley Conference title, or placed high in the greater-Boston League standings; but, unfortunately, L.H.S. was forced once again to play basketball without the advantages of a league affiliation. As an independent, Lowell challenged the state's best clubs and finished the campaign at .500.

Wrestling

On March 1st, 1975, the Lowell High wrestling team, trained by Coach George Bossi, for the second time in three years clinched the top honors in the New England wrestling meet at Wayland High School. A week earlier in Brockton, L.H.S. outdistanced their host Boxers to win their third consecutive state mat title. Tri-captains Bill Furey, George Kacavas, and Earle McQuaide swept first place in their weight divisions in the Northern Sectionals, and the State and New England Tournaments. Bill Rawnsley placed second statewide. Joining the above Raiders with Greater Lowell championships were teammates Dave Hopler, Mike Dillon, and Damon Demas. Kacavas was further honored with the Massachusetts' Outstanding Wrestler of the Year award, while George Bossi was cited as the state's Coach of the Year.

Coach John Lang spent the autumn of '74 rebuilding his cross country team, which was led by its lone senior member, Tom McCabe. During a winter of no dual meets, the hearty faithful ran in all kinds of inclement weather on Centralville's hilly First Street. Come Spring, though, everything fell into place as the Raiders fashioned a 3-5 mark. Tom Fleming and Tom McOsker each contributed a triple win performance on separate occasions. The quarter mile relay squad, consisting of McOsker, Mark Robbins, Neil Murphy, and Ed Kulis, qualified for state competition. Larry Rocha overcame an aggravating football injury to fill his role, not only as the top L.H.S. low and high hurdler, but also as a respectable 'rookie' javelin thrower.

Golf

Seniors John Moriarty, John Miller, and Mark Sullivan were aided by a surprising sophomore, Joe Sweeney, during Lowell's 1975 golf season. These Raiders surpassed Coach Petros' expectations for a rebuilding year when they earned a 9-5 record on a schedule which included a few Greater-Boston schools plus neighboring Merrimac Valley teams.

Boys' Tennis

The 1975 boys' tennis team recorded a 10-3 regular season ledger with a predominantly underclassmen squad. Lowell then entered the Eastern Massachusetts Tournament, but was ousted in the opening round by an older Coyle-Cassidy club. The lone senior was Mike O'Malley, who played first doubles with junior Mike Hickey. Another junior, Captain Mike Casey, weathered the season undefeated with a perfect 15-0 mark.

Baseball

The spring of 1975 saw Coach Skaff rebuilding his baseball team with only these seniors on his roster: Captain and 3rd baseman Jim McHale, outfielders Matt McCafferty and Dan Zabbo, and pitchers Mike McMullen and Dan Rogers. After its record was raised to 4-3 by Bob Kenney's second straight win – a 4-0 shutout of Somerville – the Red and Gray was dealt a severe set-back for a winning season when this undefeated pitcher became unavailable for the rest of the year from an arm injury. Mark Byrne and Steve Creamer, both undergraduates, batted .400 and .303 respectively, while Matt McCafferty hit at a .286 clip.

796 Receive Diplomas

On June 11, 1975, 796 seniors graduated during traditional ceremonies at Memorial Auditorium.

George D. Kouloheras, Vice Chairman of the Lowell School Committee, awarded diplomas and Superintendent of Schools Earl Sharfman presented the honors, including the coveted Carney Medals, which go to the three highest ranking boys and the three highest ranking girls in the senior class.

The invocation for the graduation exercise was delivered by the Very Rev. Walter B. Sullivan, O.P., P.G., while Capt. Merle R. Miller of the Salvation Army concluded the ceremonies with his benediction.

Supt. Sharfman presents the Lowell Boston College Club Prize to Richard Hayes for excellence in Latin.

Dr. Sharfman congratulates this year's recipients of the Carney Medals: Starr Betses, Marcia Hardy, Carolyn Greene, Harry Anastopoulos, Steve Demetriou and Arthur Michailides.

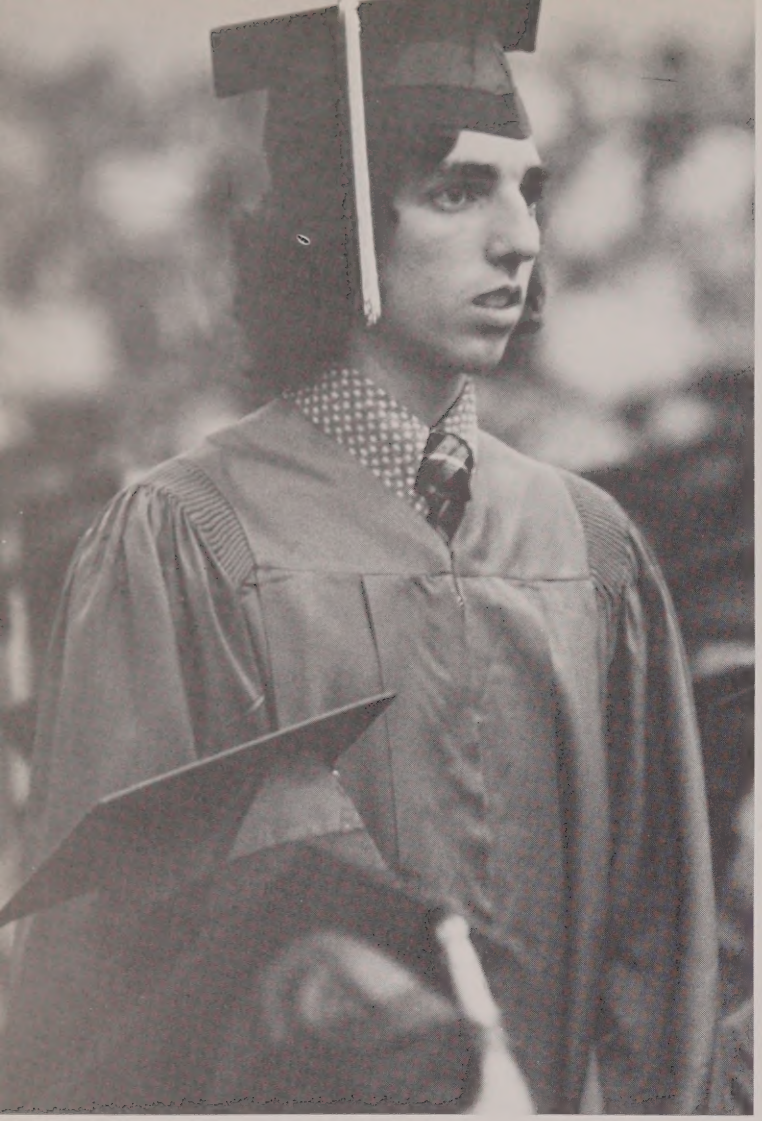
HONORS AND AWARDS

The Franklin E. Johnson Book Prize for excellence in English went to Carolyn J. Greene; Lowell Boston College Club Prize for Latin, to Richard Hayes; Alliance Francaise Prize for French, to Starr Betses; High School Alumni Association Prize for math to Carolyn J. Green; Alice F. D. Pearson Medals for business education, to Mary Jo Cameron (secretarial division) and Kenneth O'Neil (accounting Division) and the Margaret E. White Memorial Scholarship went to Jody L. Masse.

Perfect Attendance Awards were given to Patricia Biron, Ralph DePrenda, Stephen McCarron and Mark Parlee.



HONORABLE MENTION

During the ceremonies, honorable mention was made of those who attained a scholarship rank of 90 percent: David Barrett, Ralph DePrenda, Kevin Grady, Daniel Leavitt, James McCarron, Thomas McOsker, Mark Parlee, Mark Robbins, Ron Sutphen, Chester Szablak, Ronald Tye, John Walsh, Mary Jo Cameron, Juliette Carignan, Eileen Coleman, Elizabeth Donnelly, Jeanne Dupont, Susan Fitzsimmons, Leslie Galvao, Denise Hillery, Kathy Hoar, Carol Jankowski, Rosemary Kelleher, Ellen King, Jacqueline Lee, Mary Ann Oczkowski, Elaine O'Donnell, Brenda Oliver, Paula Reno, Denise Sevigny, Bernice Teague, and Cynthia Wolff.

Standing Ovation Accorded Headmaster by his Last Graduating Class

Of the many tributes that have been accorded retiring Headmaster Sullivan recently, certainly one of the most significant was the standing ovation given him by the members of the graduating class of 1975 and their parents at commencement exercises on June 11. The feelings expressed by these 796 graduates are symbolic of the feelings shared by the more than 30,000 graduates who have been educated at Lowell High School during Mr. Sullivan's career.

Grady Mulligan, Class of 1976, sings a farewell tribute of special significance to Headmaster Sullivan, "I Did It My Way."
